Northwest Farmers Discouraged By Crop Losses

WHEAT CROPS ARE BURNED BY LONG DROUGHT

MUCH DAMAGE HAS BEEN DONE BY INVADING GRASSHOPPERS

PRICES FOR PRODUCTS ARE THE LOWEST FOR THIS CENTURY

St. Paul, Minn., July 29.—(U.P.)—Their wheat crops burned by the long drought and damaged by invading plagues of grasshoppers, northwest farmers today found little consolation in the harvest, which will start within the next few weeks in earnest.

Spring wheat, including both Durham and other grains, have brought American farmers more than $330,260,000 each year during the past five years. It has been 3.3 per cent of the value of all farm products sold.

Today, however, the farmers are facing a triple threat to what meagre profits he may salvage. Hot, dry weather practically all summer long has brought early maturity to the grain with the stacks coming to a head too rapidly to fill in. A plague of grasshoppers have eaten crops in other sections while prices are the lowest for this century.

Although the spring wheat crop forecast on July 1 was nearly 100,000,000 bushels less than last year, the federal farm board is reported to be holding twice the amount of that reduction and may place part of its holdings on the market in competition with this year's crop.

During the five-year period from 1924 to 1928, the average value of the spring wheat crop in Minnesota was $29,609,000. With a 35 per cent drop in acreage and low prices, Minnesota farmers this year will not receive more than $8,000,000 for the estimated crop of 19,411,000 bushels.

Drought conditions in western North Dakota have reached such limits that Red Cross aid is being organized. Railroads have given special rates to prevent the death of livestock from lack of hay. Conditions in the Red River Valley are better. This was the section, however, where most damage was done by the plague of pests.

An appropriation of $8,000 is being used by Minnesota farmers to combat the grasshoppers. Mash mixed with poison was being distributed from Moorhead, Crookston, Ada and other Minnesota towns. The damage was confined to the western counties of the state. The loss was estimated in excess of $100,000.

In South Dakota, the plague of 'hoppers became so bad that poison was distributed by airplane. Most of the eastern counties, which are known through the country for their wheat crops, are affected. Damage was reported to be more serious than in Minnesota.

Wheat prices on the Minnepaolis Chamber of Commerce were at the lowest level in years. Sales by the Farmers' National were blamed for some of the decline in the Twin City market. July wheat was selling at 54½ cents, just 30 cents lower than a year ago. Other months were within two cents of that quotation.

Other northwest states have been hit just as badly as Minnesota, with Montana facing one of the worst crops in its history. Acreage is low, production has been cut by the burning sun and lack of moisture, and haulage charges will reduce the meager profits to make the crop almost valueless on the present market.

The bumper crop, seen in the early part of the year, has dwindled, and the low market prices will not leave much for the farmer after his costs of production have been taken out of the sale price.

In all sections of the country, and particularly in the northwest states, the yield per acre is expected to drop far below the 16-bushel mark set last year.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., BANK HELD UP

LONE BANDIT GETS $8,000; FIVE BANDITS GET $4,000 AT FORREST, ILL.

St. Joseph, Mich., July 29.—(U.P.)—The Bank of Buchanan, Mich., was held up at noon today by a bandit who escaped in an automobile with $1,200.

The bandit, about 29 years old, walked into the bank during the lunch hour, pointed a gun at George Rowe, the cashier, and demanded that he open the vault.

He scooped the vault cash into his shirt and sped away in the car which was parked in front. No shots were exchanged.

Forrest, Ill., July 29—(U.P.)—Two gunmen in overalls held up four employes and one customer of the First State Bank of Forrest today and escaped with $4,000 in cash.

Witnesses said three men in a large green sedan were waiting for the two robbers outside the bank building.

'OLD MAN RIVER' JUST ISN'T UP TO HIS OLD STANDARD

Red Wing, Minn., July 29.—(U.P.)—"Old Man River" just isn't up to standard!

The Mississippi river here was reported the lowest in recorded history today. Tabulations showed the waters were nearly a foot lower than during last year's dry spell. Continued dry weather with little or no precipitation was blamed.

Boat service was all but stopped. Excursions between the Twin Cities and Lake Pepin invariably ran into sand bars and had to be rescued, one boat with passengers being stuck for four hours.

TEMPERATURES IN NORTHWEST DOWN IN 60'S AGAIN

FOURTH HEAT WAVE IN MINNESOTA BROKEN BY ELECTRICAL AND WIND STORM

STORM WHICH BROUGHT RELIEF WAS BLAMED FOR TWO DEATHS

St. Paul, Minn., July 29.—(U.P.)—Temperatures over the northwest were down in the 60's again for the first time in more than a week as the fourth heat wave was broken by an electrical and wind storm.

The death toll for the four days of record breaking temperatures was more than a dozen in Minnesota and many more from other neighboring states.

The storm which brought relief from the excessive temperatures was blamed for two deaths. Gladys Ginerich, 14, Detroit Lakes, Minn., was struck by lightning while she was sleeping in a room with her sisters. They were not injured although she was killed instantly. Mrs. Ole Peterson, wife of a resort manager near Bemidji, was killed by lightning while fishing on Movil lake.

The storm which brought temperatures in the Twin Cities down 20 degrees in an hour did considerable property damage. A half-inch of rain fell in a half hour as torrents of water swept the streets in a cloudburst.

Winds wrecked the 100-foot incline of the loop-the-loop at Excelsior amusement park on Lake Minnetonka. Many trees around the lake shore were uprooted.

Aberdeen, S. D., which reported temperatures over the 100 mark for a week, had 94 for a maximum yesterday after a storm over the Dakotas Monday night. Heavy property damage was done by the winds and in North Dakota several farmers had to go to hospitals for treatment.

The rains came as an aid to wilting crops although little rain fell in the southwest section of the state. Agricultural experts said the precipitation was a "life-saver" for the corn crop.

7 PERSONS TAKEN, $5,000 COUNTERFEIT $10 BILLS SEIZED

RAIDS MADE BY POLICE AND FEDERAL AGENTS AT ST. LOUIS

PLATES AND PRINTING EQUIPMENT FOR MAKING SPURIOUS BILLS FOUND

St. Louis, July 29.—(U.P.)—Seven persons were arrested and more than $15,000 in counterfeit $10 bills seized in raids today by police and federal agents.

Secret service men said the raids broke up a counterfeiting ring, under suspicion for months. Plates and printing equipment for making spurious bills were also found.

A 24 year old woman proprietor of a confectionary store, Jessie Lottridge, notified police after a man gave a counterfeit $10 bill. He was captured after a chase, and according to authorities divulged the names of leaders of the ring.

The bakery shop of Alois Schenzeilorz, 65, was first raided. Federal agents said they found several packages of bank notes in the rear of the bakery, as well as a small printing press and engraving plates. The baker and his wife were arrested.

Fords Deny Shutdown Rumor or New Model Car

Detroit, July 29.—(U.P.)—Reports that the Ford Motor company had determined on dates for a shutdown were denied today by company officials. Rumors of a new Ford model, to be brought out soon, also were denied.

TO SYSTEMATIZE RELIEF REQUIRED COMING WINTER

PRESIDENT CONTINUES FIGHT TO UPHOLD WAGE STANDARDS

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR DECLINES TO DISCUSS STEEL CORP. ACTION

Washington, July 29. — President Hoover today summoned Chairman John Barton Payne of the Red Cross to discuss methods of co-ordinating work among relief agencies this winter.

Payne said Mr. Hoover was making a thorough study of methods of dealing with the relief situation.

Acting Chairman Fred C. Croxton of the president's emergency committee on employment conferred with Mr. Hoover yesterday. Croxton recently was informed by community chest representatives that the relief problem this winter promised to be more difficult than last.

Payne talked with Mr. Hoover for an hour. Mr. Hoover's survey of the relief situation, he said, did not necessarily mean a change in methods of dealing with the problem. The veteran Red Cross official said he did not believe this winter would be worse than last. He had received no alarming reports and characterized the prospect as "not bright but nothing extraordinary." There is no reason for calling on the federal government for relief, he said.

In Payne's opinion, Mr. Hoover is attempting to point all relief agencies and committees toward common objectives. He indicated the Red Cross would stand by its decision to refuse to engage in unemployment relief. In response to questions, Payne added that his position had not changed since last winter when the Red Cross rejected a proposal that it administer a food and shelter relief fund contemplated by democrats and some republican congressmen.

Washington, July 29.—(U.P.)—Belief is growing among many persons in the administration that President Hoover is being slowly crowded to the wall in his effort to maintain wages. This crowding, it is held, arises from a growing feeling in many industries that wage or salary "adjustment," and dividend reductions may be unavoidable with decreased business in some lines.

It is now a race between the effort to preserve consumer buying power and the accumulating deficits and vanishing earnings of a number of industries which are striking at payrolls. Which side wins will depend on the duration of the depression. Officials have practically quit guessing about that.

Officials were hesitant to discuss the action of the United States Steel Corporation regarding dividends, etc. Secretary of Labor William N. Doak said it was too early to comment. One informed official said that if only large salaries were to be cut, no serious harm could come but that if wholesale wage slashes were contemplated, it was something else again. The White House was silent. Some officials said President Hoover had personally intervened with the steel industry seeking to ward off general wage cuts. The White House declined to comment on this.

The American Federation of Labor likewise declined to discuss the steel corporation action. Recently President William Green said labor would strike rather than accept wage cuts. The federation executive committee will consider the wage situation at a meeting in Atlantic City August 6. Green recently blamed bankers for a drive against wages. He was supported in this contention by Doak.

While there is no disposition to overlook the seriousness of the wage situation if the depression continues, officials do point out that the cost of living has fallen about 15 per cent so that a wage cut of 10 per cent still would leave the worker a little ahead. That is, theoretically. This does not take into account that the wage earner may be struggling with mortgages, life insurance, doctor bills, and other obligations which are not reduced by a fall in prices.

If there is any gloom, it should lie in the White House itself. President Hoover is in danger of losing the outstanding achievement of his battle with the depression — his fight for wages. Democrats ridiculed his prophecy that the depression had only 60 days to live, but they could not talk

GRAF ZEPPELIN IS PROCEEDING TOWARD KAMENESS ISLANDS

Berlin, July 29. — (U.P.) — Driving through strong winds and with fog impending, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was proceeding toward the Kameness Islands in the arctic circle today, according to the Leningrad correspondent of the Welt am Abend. The information was based on a radio report from the dirigible.

Hamburg, Germany, July 29.—(U.P.)—The Hamburg-America line reported today that the Graf Zeppelin was sighted this morning over Nova Zembla.

The line announced that the Graf Zeppelin later left Nova Zembla and headed for Leningrad, which it expected to reach tomorrow morning.

Nova Zembla is a large island off the Arctic coast of Russia. Previous advices had reported the Zeppelin proceeding towards Northeast Cape, which is just beyond Nova Zembla.

SAVE RURAL CREDIT BOARD FROM ANY INTEREST DEFAULT

PROMPT ACTION TAKEN BY THE STATE INVESTMENT BOARD

AUTHORIZES PURCHASE OF $185,000,000 CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS

St. Paul, Mnin., July 29.—(U.P.)—Action of the state investment board today saved the rural credit bureau from defaulting payment of interest due in August on outstanding bonds.

The board authorized purchase of $185,000 in certificates of indebtedness to be issued by the bureau, and of $325,000 in tax levy certificates, which will be spread over the general levy of the state unless taken up by Oct. 1.

Before the authorization, the bureau had $239,709 available to meet the August 1 payment of $523,479.52 and the $226,230 due August 15. The first bonds are held by the state, and the second set is held by other than state purchasers.

The issue of certificates of indebtedness purchased brought the total certificate issue of the credit bureau to $1,000,000, the maximum authorized by law.

LORD DAWSON PENN, PHYSICIAN TO KING GEORGE, PERFORMS OPERATION

CAUSE OF THE HAEMATURIA IS COMPLETELY REMOVED TODAY

By ROBERT LOWSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, July 29.—(U.P.)—David Lloyd George, 68-year-old Liberal leader and war-time premier, critically ill, underwent a severe operation at his Adeison Road town residence today.

Lord Dawson Penn, physician to King George, conducted the operation for kidney trouble at 9:45 A. M. The following statement was issued:

"An operation was perfected on Mr. Lloyd George this morning and the cause of the haematuria completely removed.

"Considering the severity of the operation, the patient's condition so far is satisfactory."

Lord Dawson was assisted in the operation by Dr. Howard Humphries, an X-ray specialist, and Dr. J. Swift Aoly, a specialist in haematuria, the malady from which Lloyd George is suffering. It is a kidney ailment in which lesions develop, causing some loss of blood.

Three nurses were in attendance during the operation on the popular Liberal leader. An ambulance was held waiting outside the house, ready to rush Lloyd George to a hospital if necessary. Oxygen cylinders arrived shortly before the operation.

TRANSIENT LABORER IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Red Wing, Minn., July 29.—(U.P.)—Steve Sanich, 55, transient laborer, was found dead today in his bed in a farm home near here. He had been working in the fields and is believed to have been a victim of the heat.

EDWARD E. SMITH DIES IN MILL CITY

Minneapolis, July 29.—(U.P.)—Edward E. Smith, Minnesota customs collector and a power in republican politics for a quarter of a century, died at Northwestern hospital today.

Fire Sears Stage Stars

A yachting party of Ziegfeld Follies principals narrowly escaped death when the gasoline tank on the craft exploded and enveloped the boat in flames at Greenport, L. I. Harry Richman (upper right), stage star and owner of the yacht, proved a hero when he frantically released Helen Walsh (lower left), Follies beauty, from where she was pinned under blazing wreckage and dove with her into the water to extinguish flames sweeping about her. Mark Hellinger, famous columnist, and his wife, Gladys Glad, of the Follies (lower right), were among the guests on Richman's yacht when it exploded. Miss Glad was the only member of the party not injured, both Hellinger and Richman suffering burns while effecting rescues. The burned hull of the craft is shown after it was raised.

Miss Amy Johnson Arrives at Kazan in London to Tokio Flight

Moscow, July 29. — (U.P.) — Miss Amy Johnson, young British woman flier, who left Moscow this morning on her six day London to Tokio trip, landed at Kazan, Russia, at 2:25 p. m. Moscow time. Kazan is 250 miles east of Moscow.

The pretty little English girl who flew to Australia alone, departed in her light airplane at 9:40 a. m.

Miss Johnson landed at Moscow at 10:25 p. m. yesterday, after halts at Berlin and Koenigsberg, Germany. She planned to fly over Siberia, Manchuria and Korea to Japan in an effort to complete in six days the journey she undertook unsuccessfully some months ago.

5 YOUNGSTERS IN THE PATH OF GANGSTER BULLETS

1 KILLED, 4 WOUNDED, PLAYING IN EAST 107TH STREET, NEW YORK

INTENDED VICTIM FLED AS HAIL OF MACHINE GUN FIRE SPUTTERED

New York, July 29.—(U.P.)—Machine gunners for warring beer gangsters shot and killed one youngster and wounded four others playing in dirty, untidy East 107th Street, playground of Harlem's Italian children, police indicated today.

The intended victim fled, unhurt, during the staccato of guns which splattered their lead over walls of a house where the children were at play.

Of the five innocent victims of the gangster gunfire one, Michael Vengelli, 5, died today as result of jagged wounds in his thigh. His brother, Salvatore, 7, was given a blood transfusion.

Michael Bevilacqua, 4, who was being trundled about in a baby carriage by an older cousin, may die from bullet wounds in the back and thigh received when the spurting machine missed aim and spattered its leaden hail among the 25 or 30 children in the street and on the sidewalk nearby. He also submitted to a transfusion.

The "beer war" which resulted in the shootings, police indicated, was the direct result of federal prohibition raids which recently closed two huge Manhattan breweries, thus shutting off the supply of beer for Manhattan's thousands of beer saloons and speakeasies.

"Outsiders," attracted by the lucrative demand for beer which local dealers could not immediately supply, attempted to "muscle in," and so the war began, one police theory was.

Most of the folks on East 107th Street had moved out into the street, made it their living room and playroom as is their custom during the extreme heat, when a roadster stopped at No. 208, quarters of the Helmar Social Club, and a man believed to be Joseph Rao stepped out. Rao is an habitue of the club. He has been a sworn enemy of Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, reputed beer baron. After the federal raids shut off the beer supply, Aao is reported to have joined forces with Schultz to repel an invasion by Joe (One-Eye) Rock, upstate beer merchant. Rock's local agent is Vincent Coll. Police are rounding up members of all three gangs for questioning.

The man believed to have been Rao, stepped into a doorway.

A white wicker baby carriage wheeled by youngsters played in the streets. Their older brothers and sisters sat on door steps or loafed in doorways. Frank Scalest, 14, was crying his soft drinks for a little stand on the sidewalk next door to the Helmar Club. He turned to read a "funny paper."

A touring car speeded westward, slowed up, and Frank heard the bullets and their ricocheting screams.

"I ducked. Then I heard screams. I didn't see a car. I didn't see any men. But I did hear plenty of shots. I don't know where they came from."

And that's all police could get from Frank, who had learned at 14 of gang customs and penalties.

Nobody else among the hundreds of loungers "saw" anything, they told police.

None of the screaming bullets hit the Helmar Club which was crowded at the time, but deserted a few moments later when police visited it.

Two policemen, on nearby beats, heard the gunfire and ran to the street, helping children, calming parents, and trying to get a little order out of the confusion.

Child victims other than the ones named included: Florence D. A. Melbo, 11, slightly hurt; Samuel Devino, 5, slightly hurt; Salvatore Vengalli, 7.

FAIR WEATHER BELIEVED TO HAVE AIDED FOUR FLIERS

VALENTIA ISLAND, SOUTHWEST OF IRELAND, REPORTS HEARING TWO PLANES

ROUND - THE - WORLD RECORD SEEKERS, AND OTHERS WITH TURKEY AS OBJECTIVE

(By United Press)

Fair weather was believed to have aided two more trans-Atlantic airplane crossings today, while speeding a London-to-Tokio plane on its way.

Valentia Island, off southwest Ireland, reported two airplanes heard there. It was believed to indicate that Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, the round-the-world record seekers, and Russell Boardman and John Polando, flying to Turkey, had finished crossings begun at New York early yesterday.

The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was reported over Nova Zembla, large island off the Arctic coast of Russia. It is on a northern scientific tour.

After an overnight stop at Glen Curtiss airport, New York, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh tested radio instruments and took off this afternoon for North Haven, Maine, to make family farewells before proceeding on their vacation flight to Japan.

Croydon, England, July 29.—A Bellanca airplane, apparently either the Herndon-Pangborn plane bound for Moscow or the Boardman-Polando plane bound for Turkey, was reported to have passed Dublin at 4:08 P. M. (10:08 A. M. CST.) today.

Valentia, Ireland, July 29.—The Valentia wireless station announced today that an unidentified airplane had been heard at Port Magee, County Kerry, at 3 P. M.

Port Magee is on the mainland opposite Valentia. The report fitted in with a previous United Press report that a plane had been heard in the vicinity at 3:15 P. M.

SENTENCE 3 YOUTHS TO LIFE TERMS

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF PARMALEE, S. D., MERCHANT

Deadwood, S. D., July 29.—(U.P.)—Three Lead, S. D., youths were to arrive at Leavenworth, Kansas, today, to serve life terms for the murder last February of C. B. Dowling, a Parmalee merchant.

The youths, who were sentenced here by Federal Judge Lee Wyman are: Paul Davis, Herbert Bonset and Stanley Hatten.

Davis plead guilty, and the other two were convicted by a jury.

United State Marshal Cet Leedom and three guards had charge of the prisoners.

JULY CORN TAKES A PRICE JUMP AT CHICAGO TODAY

Chicago, July 29.—(U.P.)—July corn spurted nine and one-half cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade today under the stimulus of congested orders and meager offerings.

September and December deliveries were enlivened by July's strength and by reports of hot weather damage, closing with good gains.

July corn advanced to 67½ cents a bushel, September was up 1¼ cents to 50¾, and December gained 1⅛ cents to 44½.

NEW PEST AIDS GRASSHOPPERS

Minneapolis, July 29.—(U.P.)—A new pest is working with the grasshoppers in flax fields near Fosston, Minn., H. L. Parten, entomologist at University Farm, said today. The pest is called "the army worm," he said. A formula which has been prepared for combatting the worm follows: with 50 pounds of bran mix two pounds of paris green, one gallon of molasses and two or three gallons of water.

30,000 Clothing Workers on Strike in New York City

New York, July 29.—(U.P.)—In protest against sweat shop owners and gangsters who have preyed on the needles trades, more than 30,000 men's and children's clothing workers went on strike today. It was a remarkably peaceful strike demonstration and was unusual in that it was sanctioned by the New York Clothing Manufacturers' exchange, which employes approximately 18,000 workers.

Washington, July 29.—(U.P.)—Belief is growing among many persons in the administration that President Hoover is being slowly crowded to the wall in his effort to maintain wages. This crowding, it is held, arises from a growing feeling in many industries that wage or salary "adjustment," and dividend reductions may be unavoidable with decreased business in some lines.

It is now a race between the effort to preserve consumer buying power and the accumulating deficits and vanishing earnings of a number of industries which are striking at payrolls. Which side wins will depend on the duration of the depression. Officials have practically quit guessing about that.

Officials were hesitant to discuss the action of the United States Steel Corporation regarding dividends, etc. Secretary of Labor William N. Doak said it was too early to comment. One informed official said that if only large salaries were to be cut, no serious harm could come but that if wholesale wage slashes were contemplated, it was something else again. The White House was silent. Some officials said President Hoover had personally intervened with the steel industry seeking to ward off general wage cuts. The White House declined to comment on this.

The American Federation of Labor likewise declined to discuss the steel corporation action. Recently President William Green said labor would strike rather than accept wage cuts. The federation executive committee will consider the wage situation at a meeting in Atlantic City August 6. Green recently blamed bankers for a drive against wages. He was supported in this contention by Doak.

While there is no disposition to overlook the seriousness of the wage situation if the depression continues, officials do point out that the cost of living has fallen about 15 per cent so that a wage cut of 10 per cent still would leave the worker a little ahead. That is, theoretically. This does not take into account that the wage earner may be struggling with mortgages, life insurance, doctor bills, and other obligations which are not reduced by a fall in prices.

If there is any gloom, it should lie in the White House itself. President Hoover is in danger of losing the outstanding achievement of his battle with the depression — his fight for wages. Democrats ridiculed his prophecy that the depression had only 60 days to live, but they could not talk

Berlin, July 29. — (U.P.) — Driving through strong winds and with fog impending, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was proceeding toward the Kameness Islands in the arctic circle today, according to the Leningrad correspondent of the Welt am Abend. The information was based on a radio report from the dirigible.

Hamburg, Germany, July 29.—(U.P.)—The Hamburg-America line reported today that the Graf Zeppelin was sighted this morning over Nova Zembla.

The line announced that the Graf Zeppelin later left Nova Zembla and headed for Leningrad, which it expected to reach tomorrow morning.

Nova Zembla is a large island off the Arctic coast of Russia. Previous advices had reported the Zeppelin proceeding towards Northeast Cape, which is just beyond Nova Zembla.

SAVE RURAL CREDIT BOARD FROM ANY INTEREST DEFAULT

AUTHORIZES PURCHASE OF $185,000,000 CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS

St. Paul, Mnin., July 29.—(U.P.)—Action of the state investment board today saved the rural credit bureau from defaulting payment of interest due in August on outstanding bonds.

The board authorized purchase of $185,000 in certificates of indebtedness to be issued by the bureau, and of $325,000 in tax levy certificates, which will be spread over the general levy of the state unless taken up by Oct. 1.

Before the authorization, the bureau had $239,709 available to meet the August 1 payment of $523,479.52 and the $226,230 due August 15. The first bonds are held by the state, and the second set is held by other than state purchasers.

The issue of certificates of indebtedness purchased brought the total certificate issue of the credit bureau to $1,000,000, the maximum authorized by law.

LORD DAWSON PENN, PHYSICIAN TO KING GEORGE, PERFORMS OPERATION

CAUSE OF THE HAEMATURIA IS COMPLETELY REMOVED TODAY

By ROBERT LOWSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, July 29.—(U.P.)—David Lloyd George, 68-year-old Liberal leader and war-time premier, critically ill, underwent a severe operation at his Adeison Road town residence today.

Lord Dawson Penn, physician to King George, conducted the operation for kidney trouble at 9:45 A. M. The following statement was issued:

"An operation was perfected on Mr. Lloyd George this morning and the cause of the haematuria completely removed.

Lord Dawson was assisted in the operation by Dr. Howard Humphries, an X-ray specialist, and Dr. J. Swift Aoly, a specialist in haematuria, the malady from which Lloyd George is suffering. It is a kidney ailment in which lesions develop, causing some loss of blood.

Three nurses were in attendance during the operation on the popular Liberal leader. An ambulance was held waiting outside the house, ready to rush Lloyd George to a hospital if necessary. Oxygen cylinders arrived shortly before the operation.

TRANSIENT LABORER IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Red Wing, Minn., July 29.—(U.P.)—Steve Sanich, 55, transient laborer, was found dead today in his bed in a farm home near here. He had been working in the fields and is believed to have been a victim of the heat.

EDWARD E. SMITH DIES IN MILL CITY

Minneapolis, July 29.—(U.P.)—Edward E. Smith, Minnesota customs collector and a power in republican politics for a quarter of a century, died at Northwestern hospital today.

Fire Sears Stage Stars

A yachting party of Ziegfeld Follies principals narrowly escaped death when the gasoline tank on the craft exploded and enveloped the boat in flames at Greenport, L. I. Harry Richman (upper right), stage star and owner of the yacht, proved a hero when he frantically released Helen Walsh (lower left), Follies beauty, from where she was pinned under blazing wreckage and dove with her into the water to extinguish flames sweeping about her. Mark Hellinger, famous columnist, and his wife, Gladys Glad, of the Follies (lower right), were among the guests on Richman's yacht when it exploded. Miss Glad was the only member of the party not injured, both Hellinger and Richman suffering burns while effecting rescues. The burned hull of the craft is shown after it was raised.

Miss Amy Johnson Arrives at Kazan in London to Tokio Flight

Moscow, July 29. — (U.P.) — Miss Amy Johnson, young British woman flier, who left Moscow this morning on her six day London to Tokio trip, landed at Kazan, Russia, at 2:25 p. m. Moscow time. Kazan is 250 miles east of Moscow.

The pretty little English girl who flew to Australia alone, departed in her light airplane at 9:40 a. m.

Miss Johnson landed at Moscow at 10:25 p. m. yesterday, after halts at Berlin and Koenigsberg, Germany. She planned to fly over Siberia, Manchuria and Korea to Japan in an effort to complete in six days the journey she undertook unsuccessfully some months ago.

5 YOUNGSTERS IN THE PATH OF GANGSTER BULLETS

1 KILLED, 4 WOUNDED, PLAYING IN EAST 107TH STREET, NEW YORK

INTENDED VICTIM FLED AS HAIL OF MACHINE GUN FIRE SPUTTERED

New York, July 29.—(U.P.)—Machine gunners for warring beer gangsters shot and killed one youngster and wounded four others playing in dirty, untidy East 107th Street, playground of Harlem's Italian children, police indicated today.

The intended victim fled, unhurt, during the staccato of guns which splattered their lead over walls of a house where the children were at play.

Of the five innocent victims of the gangster gunfire one, Michael Vengelli, 5, died today as result of jagged wounds in his thigh. His brother, Salvatore, 7, was given a blood transfusion.

Michael Bevilacqua, 4, who was being trundled about in a baby carriage by an older cousin, may die from bullet wounds in the back and thigh received when the spurting machine missed aim and spattered its leaden hail among the 25 or 30 children in the street and on the sidewalk nearby. He also submitted to a transfusion.

The "beer war" which resulted in the shootings, police indicated, was the direct result of federal prohibition raids which recently closed two huge Manhattan breweries, thus shutting off the supply of beer for Manhattan's thousands of beer saloons and speakeasies.

"Outsiders," attracted by the lucrative demand for beer which local dealers could not immediately supply, attempted to "muscle in," and so the war began, one police theory was.

Most of the folks on East 107th Street had moved out into the street, made it their living room and playroom as is their custom during the extreme heat, when a roadster stopped at No. 208, quarters of the Helmar Social Club, and a man believed to be Joseph Rao stepped out. Rao is an habitue of the club. He has been a sworn enemy of Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, reputed beer baron. After the federal raids shut off the beer supply, Aao is reported to have joined forces with Schultz to repel an invasion by Joe (One-Eye) Rock, upstate beer merchant. Rock's local agent is Vincent Coll. Police are rounding up members of all three gangs for questioning.

The man believed to have been Rao, stepped into a doorway.

A white wicker baby carriage wheeled by youngsters played in the streets. Their older brothers and sisters sat on door steps or loafed in doorways. Frank Scalest, 14, was crying his soft drinks for a little stand on the sidewalk next door to the Helmar Club. He turned to read a "funny paper."

A touring car speeded westward, slowed up, and Frank heard the bullets and their ricocheting screams.

"I ducked. Then I heard screams. I didn't see a car. I didn't see any men. But I did hear plenty of shots. I don't know where they came from."

And that's all police could get from Frank, who had learned at 14 of gang customs and penalties.

Nobody else among the hundreds of loungers "saw" anything, they told police.

None of the screaming bullets hit the Helmar Club which was crowded at the time, but deserted a few moments later when police visited it.

Two policemen, on nearby beats, heard the gunfire and ran to the street, helping children, calming parents, and trying to get a little order out of the confusion.

Child victims other than the ones named included: Florence D. A. Melbo, 11, slightly hurt; Samuel Devino, 5, slightly hurt; Salvatore Vengalli, 7.

FAIR WEATHER BELIEVED TO HAVE AIDED FOUR FLIERS

(By United Press)

Fair weather was believed to have aided two more trans-Atlantic airplane crossings today, while speeding a London-to-Tokio plane on its way.

Valentia Island, off southwest Ireland, reported two airplanes heard there. It was believed to indicate that Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, the round-the-world record seekers, and Russell Boardman and John Polando, flying to Turkey, had finished crossings begun at New York early yesterday.

After an overnight stop at Glen Curtiss airport, New York, Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh tested radio instruments and took off this afternoon for North Haven, Maine, to make family farewells before proceeding on their vacation flight to Japan.

Croydon, England, July 29.—A Bellanca airplane, apparently either the Herndon-Pangborn plane bound for Moscow or the Boardman-Polando plane bound for Turkey, was reported to have passed Dublin at 4:08 P. M. (10:08 A. M. CST.) today.

Valentia, Ireland, July 29.—The Valentia wireless station announced today that an unidentified airplane had been heard at Port Magee, County Kerry, at 3 P. M.

Port Magee is on the mainland opposite Valentia. The report fitted in with a previous United Press report that a plane had been heard in the vicinity at 3:15 P. M.

SENTENCE 3 YOUTHS TO LIFE TERMS

CHARGED WITH MURDER OF PARMALEE, S. D., MERCHANT

Deadwood, S. D., July 29.—(U.P.)—Three Lead, S. D., youths were to arrive at Leavenworth, Kansas, today, to serve life terms for the murder last February of C. B. Dowling, a Parmalee merchant.

The youths, who were sentenced here by Federal Judge Lee Wyman are: Paul Davis, Herbert Bonset and Stanley Hatten.

Davis plead guilty, and the other two were convicted by a jury.

United State Marshal Cet Leedom and three guards had charge of the prisoners.

JULY CORN TAKES A PRICE JUMP AT CHICAGO TODAY

Chicago, July 29.—(U.P.)—July corn spurted nine and one-half cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade today under the stimulus of congested orders and meager offerings.

September and December deliveries were enlivened by July's strength and by reports of hot weather damage, closing with good gains.

July corn advanced to 67½ cents a bushel, September was up 1¼ cents to 50¾, and December gained 1⅛ cents to 44½.

NEW PEST AIDS GRASSHOPPERS

Minneapolis, July 29.—(U.P.)—A new pest is working with the grasshoppers in flax fields near Fosston, Minn., H. L. Parten, entomologist at University Farm, said today. The pest is called "the army worm," he said. A formula which has been prepared for combatting the worm follows: with 50 pounds of bran mix two pounds of paris green, one gallon of molasses and two or three gallons of water.

30,000 Clothing Workers on Strike in New York City

New York, July 29.—(U.P.)—In protest against sweat shop owners and gangsters who have preyed on the needles trades, more than 30,000 men's and children's clothing workers went on strike today. It was a remarkably peaceful strike demonstration and was unusual in that it was sanctioned by the New York Clothing Manufacturers' exchange, which employes approximately 18,000 workers.

MUSICIANS PLAY TAG AT TWO PARKS

Confusion of Location Leads to Rush From One Park to Another; Finally Play at Lum

Last minute changes in the site for the holding of the band concert caused considerable confusion surrounding the appearance of the 205th Infantry Band of New Ulm here last evening.

Arrangements were made Monday for the band stationed at Camp Ripley to play at Gregory Park. The announcement was made by Mayor Harry Creger. Yesterday the location was changed to Lum Park and the announcement made to the press by Mayor Creger.

However as trucks brought the musicians from Camp Ripley, a little tag game was played as musicians and listeners chased each other back and forth from Gregory Park to Lum Park in an endeavor to reunite the forces.

The concert was finally started at 9 p. m. at Lum Park, and those participating in the wild goose chase reported that the concert was well worth their efforts.

MUSICIANS PLAY TAG AT TWO PARKS

Confusion of Location Leads to Rush From One Park to Another; Finally Play at Lum

Last minute changes in the site for the holding of the band concert caused considerable confusion surrounding the appearance of the 205th Infantry Band of New Ulm here last evening.

Arrangements were made Monday for the band stationed at Camp Ripley to play at Gregory Park. The announcement was made by Mayor Harry Creger. Yesterday the location was changed to Lum Park and the announcement made to the press by Mayor Creger.

However as trucks brought the musicians from Camp Ripley, a little tag game was played as musicians and listeners chased each other back and forth from Gregory Park to Lum Park in an endeavor to reunite the forces.

The concert was finally started at 9 p. m. at Lum Park, and those participating in the wild goose chase reported that the concert was well worth their efforts.

Campaign Against Glaring Lights Due

BEGINNING August 3, an intensive campaign for automobile headlight testing will be conducted throughout the state of Minnesota. The State Highway Patrol, which has been after faulty lights for the past two years, will devote a larger share of its efforts to glaring lights during August, and the police of a number of cities throughout the state have agreed to put on campaigns for better auto lighting the same month.

Here in the Brainerd district the campaign applies with particular force. So many highways have been treated with bituminous coating or have been re-treated that the old standby of a center line in yellow or orange color has been wiped out. It makes it very difficult when approached by glaring headlights to size up the dark floored highway and to keep closely to the edge without tangling with the loose gravel sides. A car traveling at high speed which brushes into loose gravel at the side of the highway is apt to be swerved into the ditch. Correction of glaring headlights will do much to increase the safety factor in driving on unmarked center line bituminous highways.

The plan for a cooperative campaign for enforcement of the lighting provisions of the state traffic act was suggested to the recent meeting of the Minnesota Police association by Earle Brown, chief of the highway patrol, and met with general approval. But although an intensive effort to clear the highways of faulty lights will be made in August, both Mr. Brown and members of the police association declared that it should not be a sporadic campaign but a continuous effort.

In cases of seriously deficient lighting, cars may be impounded and drivers arrested and fined. In ordinary cases of badly focused lights, or one light out, drivers will be given a ticket requiring them to have their lights tested and corrected and file a certificate within 48 hours showing that their lights are up to standard.

The Farm Mother

THIS is an editorial for women, exclusively, says the Fairmont Sentinel. It deals with hot weather—today, and only a few years ago. How many mothers, with one or two small children, find it is a chore, almost beyond their capacity, to care for the youngsters on days such as we had Wednesday and today?

Pretty tough, isn't it?

Then how would you like to draw back the curtain of time and see what some mothers did, right here in Martin county, only a few years ago. And perhaps some are doing it today.

We recall one mother, who twenty-eight years ago, spent a day like Wednesday, shocking grain. Her 8-year-old son rode a horse ahead of the binder, all day long. Her 6-year-old son had to "mind the baby," a girl of 3, in the shade of a shock of grain, while the others worked in the blistering heat.

The cutting started at 6:30 a. m., and continued until after sundown, with a brief rest period at noon. Water was hauled in a barrel for the horses and a jug of water was kept "cool," immersed in the barrel. Dinner was served in the shade afforded by a wagon, and then for a long afternoon of work.

Home after sundown, this mother prepared supper while her husband did the chores. Then she washed the dishes, and bathed the two youngest children in a wash tub. And the morrow brought just another such day. And this mother never uttered one word of complaint.

How do we know?

No Chivalry Among Gangsters

THERE is no chivalry among gangsters. They "live by the sword and die by the sword."

Their habits, their so-called gang codes do not contribute to longevity.

Shooting down innocent children playing in crowded streets in New York shows the heartless manner in which they operate. The children happened to be in the way as their machine guns rattled in a chase after a gangster who was marked for assassination. Machine gunners, intent on "getting their man," sent a hail of bullets toward the children which killed one and injured four.

This gangster business is an evil that should be exterminated root and branch. It has no place in American life. Originating in Europe, it was transplanted to America, and through fear and intimidation, threats mixed with gunfire, bombs, kidnaping, burning, thievery, etc., gangdom has thrived. So strong have been its tentacles that victims have feared to give information of the wrongs suffered or the perpetrators.

Weed Cutting

THE mayors of cities and the presidents of village councils are responsible for destroying weeds on the roads, streets, alleys and public grounds of their respective municipalities.

The weed act (Chapter 377 Laws of 1925) provides the mayors and presidents with authority to appoint some one or more persons (depending on the size of the municipality) to act with him or for him, in case he is unable to give the matter his full and personal attention. Notice is given by the Commission of Agriculture, Dairy and Food to this effect.

In Brainerd the city has shown commendable activity in having a force of men cut down weeds. Streets, alleys, vacant property, etc., were made clean of the weed pest.

Hot Weather

DURING the four heat waves which caused Minnesota to fume, Brainerd had but one day of 100 degrees temperature, that being on July 16.

St. Cloud, experiencing its hottest summer, has had seven days so far when the temperature readings topped the 100 mark. The readings for the summer follow: June 28, 102; June 29, 100; July 15, 102.5; July 16, 102; July 25, 102; July 26, 103; July 27, 102.5. The records are kept at the state reformatory bureau and no other summer on record has produced so many hot days.

ST. CLOUD Rotary club has additional committees evidencing work of the club in other fields beyond standard committees. There are committees on boys' work, crippled children, rural, student loan fund, and house and transportation.

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

Saint Paul
July 25, 1931.

Universal Fur Breeders' Association,
Lyceum Building, Suite 5,
Brainerd, Minn.
Attention: Mr. Clem Thompson

Dear Mr. Thompson:

It has occurred to me that your Association should exhibit at the Minnesota State Fair.

The fur business is coming to be one of the principal industries of the state, and here at the Minnesota State Fair is an opportunity to exhibit the merchandise of your Association members to approximately a half million people.

I should be glad to go over with you the advantages of placing your products before the people of the state and the Northwest in a comprehensive exhibit at the State Fair.

I have talked to Dr. Surber, who is in charge of our Fish and Game Department and he, too, expressed the hope that your Association will come to the Fair with an exhibit of your fur bearing animals and pelts and such other things as maks up the commodities of your industry.

At the last Fair, 1930, there was a fur exhibit staged in the Fish and Game Building. It occupied a space 18 feet square at the center of the south aisle. This space is now available if it will serve your purpose as to size.

I am enclosing herewith a plat of the Fair Grounds on which is located a small building 29x47 that was formerly used as the Editorial Association headquarters. Last year it was leased to the St. Cloud Times for the headquarters of that newspaper. It is situated on the Main street of the Fair grounds, as you will see from the plat. If this structure would serve your purpose, we could let you have the entire building and probably outside space adjacent to it for caging some of the fur bearing animals that you would not have room for inside the enclosure. This is a nice little building and we would light it for you.

I also enclose nerewith a plat of Industrial Building No. 6. You will see from the plat of the grounds that this building is just north of the building known as the Editorial Association Building, which I have described above. We have an Industrial Building No. 6, six spaced each 16x18 that we can let you have. They are spaces Nos. 6 to 11. If you want them all we could let you have them. Of course, if you would select the space in Industrial Building No. 6, it would be with the understanding that your exhibit would not be objectionable to the other exhibitors in the building from the standpoint of insanitary and bad odor conditions. Other displays in the building are of varied industries and household equipment nature.

I am mentioning these three prospective locations, Mr. Thompson, and if you are interested in any of them, it would be a splendid thing if you could come to the Fair Grounds and look over these locations [illegible] one that will serve you to the best advantage.

Yours truly,
(Signed) RAYMOND A. LEE,
Secretary.

"MAKE-BELIEVE" by FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1930, by Faith Baldwin Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

CHAPTER III.

"LOOK here, Mary Lou, marry me—I haven't much, but we can get along somehow," said Larry abruptly, and his own voice sounded strange to him. "I don't want you behind a counter or gallivanting around by yourself. You—you are a dear little idiot and you'd get into all sorts of jams. You marry me, Mary Lou, and I'll take care of you!" he ended, sternly.

Mary Lou stared at him speechless. Then the bright tears welled to her eyes and fell . . . round drops sliding down her flushing cheeks.

"Am I so—distasteful to you?" he asked, in dismay.

"No — no — you're the best friend I have on earth," choked Mary Lou, "and—and—oh, Larry, what a lamb you are! Asking me to marry you when—when you're so ambitious, so anxious to get ahead . . . asking me to come and be a burden, a regular old millstone. You don't want me, really, Larry, you don't love me, dear—"

"But . . ." began Larry, helplessly.

"No, you don't! Not . . . not the marrying way. And I don't love you—that way. Every other way, yes. But not . . . not that. Larry, you know I won't marry you—but—I do thank you for asking me," said Mary Lou with a quaint sort of ceremony.

A Way Out.

He took her cold little hands in his own and leaned close to the fragrant, rounded cheek, the crop of curling red-gold hair.

"I want to take care of you!" he said stubbornly.

Chivalry isn't dead, after all.

Mary Lou shook her head.

"I'll have to take care of myself!" she cried out, "and it's high time I learned how. Get me a job, Larry, any kind of a job, and I'll be so grateful to you. And now, for mercy's sake, go home."

She turned a little and brushed a very small kiss across his lean, freckled cheek, and got to her feet.

The following day being Sunday, Mary Lou, Billy and the Sandersons journeyed out to Oakdale, Long Island, to see Grandmother Jennings and talk over their plans.

On the train, as Howard endeavored to restrain his small son from hanging out of the window while demanding to ride with the engineer—"Why can't I ride with the engineer, daddy?"—Clara and Mary Lou sat together and soberly discussed the details of closing up the little rented house, details which would fall to Mary Lou's lot to attend to, as Clara would have to keep on with her position and break in her successor until practically the last minute.

For it had finally been decided that the Sandersons would accept the offer, that Billy would go to his grandmother's and that Mary Lou would go with him, remaining until such time as she could make other arrangements.

Mary Lou, looking with blind blue eyes at the Autumnal landscape, was trying hard to be extremely practical and matter-of-fact. Now and then, in a small red notebook, with a pencil stub, she managed to make shaky, scrawly notes while she questioned Clara severely as to what would be stored, what must be sold and what would be packed.

The Sandersons' boat would sail the first week in November and there was a great deal to do.

"You must," said Mary Lou, wisely, "buy thin clothes. You can't trot off east of Suez with a fur coat and sports tweeds!"

Strong Ties.

"It's going to be pretty bad," she said, "leaving Billy. I—I sometimes wonder how I can do it. I get—panicky. But you? If only I knew you were to be with him permanently, settled — or with someone I knew and trusted. I feel dreadfully about it, Mary Lou, as if . . . as if I were failing you so."

Her clever, brown eyes were bright with unusual tears. Mary Lou and Larry Mitchell had seemed to her in less overwrought times, and still seemed, deep in her heart, she could not help wondering for one wild moment if, after all, such a solution wouldn't be the best and safest thing for Mary Lou under the present topsy-turvy circumstances. She opened her firm, red mouth to say something and shut it again, irresolute. But Mary Lou, with the almost psychic sense she had at times, and a very disconcerting sense she often found it, forestalled her by reading her thoughts neatly and accurately.

"And I'm awfully fond of him," she told Clara quickly, "but, oh, I know what you're thinking. It—wouldn't work. Larry doesn't love me, Clara, and I don't love him. Not in the way we should—to get married, I mean," she went on, flushing, confused, adorable in her confusion.

"I know," said Clara and sighed a little.

"But he'll look after me," Mary Lou assured her. "He's going to help me get a job."

Arriving at Oakdale they engaged the lone and rickety taxi and drove to Grandma Jennings on, actually, Applelane Street, the car sobbing and snorting convulsively, much to Billy's amusement.

"You marry me, Mary Lou, and I'll take care of you," said Larry.

Lou gave her arm a little pinch.

"Don't be silly . . . I'll get along—grand!" said Mary Lou. "Something will turn up, see if it doesn't," she went on breathlessly. "There's always an adventure just around the corner. Of course," she went on, more soberly, while writing in the red book, "remember to store Clara's Hudson seal." "Of course, it's a darned shame I haven't any marketable talent! Still, there's always a possibility of being a housekeeper to some delightful rich old gentleman who would die in a couple of years and leave me three millions and a house at Palm Beach," added Mary Lou, laughing, but with her incorrigible sense that life was, after all, an exciting fairy story and herself in the very midst of it. At that, fairy stories had a way of plunging their heroines into all sorts of unhappy situations and curious escapades, but there was always rescue just ahead, and even a Prince Charming. Not that she cared much about princes . . . except Larry, who was a very modern sort of prince.

Clara spoke of him now.

"Larry Mitchell thinks we're brutes to go off and leave you!" she commented.

"Did he say so?" asked Mary Lou, bristling in instant defense of her relatives.

"Well, no, hardly that," conceded Clara, laughing, "but—I could tell. He's awfully fond of you."

She broke off abruptly. Unsuitable as a marriage between Mary

Billy's New Home.

The Jennings homestead, to which Mrs. Jennings had come as a bride, in which Adelaide and Clara and the vanished others had been born, was set far back from the quiet street, in a garden which in Summer was a tangle of color, a riot of bloom, a glory of sunlight and fragrance. Even now, in mid-October, a few gallant dahlias and glowing zinnias stood bravely and on a large Jacqueminot rosebush the dark red blossoms bloomed undaunted.

The house was white with handmade shingles, the shutters a faded blue-green, that charming, mellow color. And Grandma Jennings was standing at the picket gate in her Sunday stiff black silk and her best apron. She was a little woman, with snapping black eyes and a will of her own which underlay her sweetness like a streak of steel. Her skin was still pink and white and very little wrinkled; only her hands betrayed her age.

Billy flung himself at her knees with a shout of welcome. She disentangled herself somehow and presented a cool cheek to her daughter, her son-in-law, and Mary Lou, in turn.

Campaign Against Glaring Lights Due

BEGINNING August 3, an intensive campaign for automobile headlight testing will be conducted throughout the state of Minnesota. The State Highway Patrol, which has been after faulty lights for the past two years, will devote a larger share of its efforts to glaring lights during August, and the police of a number of cities throughout the state have agreed to put on campaigns for better auto lighting the same month.

Here in the Brainerd district the campaign applies with particular force. So many highways have been treated with bituminous coating or have been re-treated that the old standby of a center line in yellow or orange color has been wiped out. It makes it very difficult when approached by glaring headlights to size up the dark floored highway and to keep closely to the edge without tangling with the loose gravel sides. A car traveling at high speed which brushes into loose gravel at the side of the highway is apt to be swerved into the ditch. Correction of glaring headlights will do much to increase the safety factor in driving on unmarked center line bituminous highways.

The plan for a cooperative campaign for enforcement of the lighting provisions of the state traffic act was suggested to the recent meeting of the Minnesota Police association by Earle Brown, chief of the highway patrol, and met with general approval. But although an intensive effort to clear the highways of faulty lights will be made in August, both Mr. Brown and members of the police association declared that it should not be a sporadic campaign but a continuous effort.

In cases of seriously deficient lighting, cars may be impounded and drivers arrested and fined. In ordinary cases of badly focused lights, or one light out, drivers will be given a ticket requiring them to have their lights tested and corrected and file a certificate within 48 hours showing that their lights are up to standard.

The Farm Mother

THIS is an editorial for women, exclusively, says the Fairmont Sentinel. It deals with hot weather—today, and only a few years ago. How many mothers, with one or two small children, find it is a chore, almost beyond their capacity, to care for the youngsters on days such as we had Wednesday and today?

Pretty tough, isn't it?

Then how would you like to draw back the curtain of time and see what some mothers did, right here in Martin county, only a few years ago. And perhaps some are doing it today.

We recall one mother, who twenty-eight years ago, spent a day like Wednesday, shocking grain. Her 8-year-old son rode a horse ahead of the binder, all day long. Her 6-year-old son had to "mind the baby," a girl of 3, in the shade of a shock of grain, while the others worked in the blistering heat.

The cutting started at 6:30 a. m., and continued until after sundown, with a brief rest period at noon. Water was hauled in a barrel for the horses and a jug of water was kept "cool," immersed in the barrel. Dinner was served in the shade afforded by a wagon, and then for a long afternoon of work.

Home after sundown, this mother prepared supper while her husband did the chores. Then she washed the dishes, and bathed the two youngest children in a wash tub. And the morrow brought just another such day. And this mother never uttered one word of complaint.

How do we know?

Because this is written by the 8-year-old son.

No Chivalry Among Gangsters

THERE is no chivalry among gangsters. They "live by the sword and die by the sword."

Their habits, their so-called gang codes do not contribute to longevity.

Shooting down innocent children playing in crowded streets in New York shows the heartless manner in which they operate. The children happened to be in the way as their machine guns rattled in a chase after a gangster who was marked for assassination. Machine gunners, intent on "getting their man," sent a hail of bullets toward the children which killed one and injured four.

This gangster business is an evil that should be exterminated root and branch. It has no place in American life. Originating in Europe, it was transplanted to America, and through fear and intimidation, threats mixed with gunfire, bombs, kidnaping, burning, thievery, etc., gangdom has thrived. So strong have been its tentacles that victims have feared to give information of the wrongs suffered or the perpetrators.

Weed Cutting

THE mayors of cities and the presidents of village councils are responsible for destroying weeds on the roads, streets, alleys and public grounds of their respective municipalities.

The weed act (Chapter 377 Laws of 1925) provides the mayors and presidents with authority to appoint some one or more persons (depending on the size of the municipality) to act with him or for him, in case he is unable to give the matter his full and personal attention. Notice is given by the Commission of Agriculture, Dairy and Food to this effect.

In Brainerd the city has shown commendable activity in having a force of men cut down weeds. Streets, alleys, vacant property, etc., were made clean of the weed pest.

Hot Weather

DURING the four heat waves which caused Minnesota to fume, Brainerd had but one day of 100 degrees temperature, that being on July 16.

St. Cloud, experiencing its hottest summer, has had seven days so far when the temperature readings topped the 100 mark. The readings for the summer follow: June 28, 102; June 29, 100; July 15, 102.5; July 16, 102; July 25, 102; July 26, 103; July 27, 102.5. The records are kept at the state reformatory bureau and no other summer on record has produced so many hot days.

ST. CLOUD Rotary club has additional committees evidencing work of the club in other fields beyond standard committees. There are committees on boys' work, crippled children, rural, student loan fund, and house and transportation.

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

Saint Paul
July 25, 1931.

Universal Fur Breeders' Association,
Lyceum Building, Suite 5,
Brainerd, Minn.
Attention: Mr. Clem Thompson
Dear Mr. Thompson:

It has occurred to me that your Association should exhibit at the Minnesota State Fair.

The fur business is coming to be one of the principal industries of the state, and here at the Minnesota State Fair is an opportunity to exhibit the merchandise of your Association members to approximately a half million people.

I should be glad to go over with you the advantages of placing your products before the people of the state and the Northwest in a comprehensive exhibit at the State Fair.

I have talked to Dr. Surber, who is in charge of our Fish and Game Department and he, too, expressed the hope that your Association will come to the Fair with an exhibit of your fur bearing animals and pelts and such other things as maks up the commodities of your industry.

At the last Fair, 1930, there was a fur exhibit staged in the Fish and Game Building. It occupied a space 18 feet square at the center of the south aisle. This space is now available if it will serve your purpose as to size.

I am enclosing herewith a plat of the Fair Grounds on which is located a small building 29x47 that was formerly used as the Editorial Association headquarters. Last year it was leased to the St. Cloud Times for the headquarters of that newspaper. It is situated on the Main street of the Fair grounds, as you will see from the plat. If this structure would serve your purpose, we could let you have the entire building and probably outside space adjacent to it for caging some of the fur bearing animals that you would not have room for inside the enclosure. This is a nice little building and we would light it for you.

I also enclose herewith a plat of Industrial Building No. 6. You will see from the plat of the grounds that this building is just north of the building known as the Editorial Association Building, which I have described above. We have an Industrial Building No. 6, six spaced each 16x18 that we can let you have. They are spaces Nos. 6 to 11. If you want them all we could let you have them. Of course, if you would select the space in Industrial Building No. 6, it would be with the understanding that your exhibit would not be objectionable to the other exhibitors in the building from the standpoint of insanitary and bad odor conditions. Other displays in the building are of varied industries and household equipment nature.

I am mentioning these three prospective locations, Mr. Thompson, and if you are interested in any of them, it would be a splendid thing if you could come to the Fair Grounds and look over these locations and select the one that will serve you to the best advantage.

Yours truly,
(Signed) RAYMOND A. LEE,
Secretary.

"MAKE-BELIEVE" by FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1930, by Faith Baldwin Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

CHAPTER III.

"LOOK here, Mary Lou, marry me—I haven't much, but we can get along somehow," said Larry abruptly, and his own voice sounded strange to him. "I don't want you behind a counter or gallivanting around by yourself. You—you are a dear little idiot and you'd get into all sorts of jams. You marry me, Mary Lou, and I'll take care of you!" he ended, sternly.

Mary Lou stared at him speechless. Then the bright tears welled to her eyes and fell . . . round drops sliding down her flushing cheeks.

"Am I so—distasteful to you?" he asked, in dismay.

"No — no — you're the best friend I have on earth," choked Mary Lou, "and—and—oh, Larry, what a lamb you are! Asking me to marry you when—when you're so ambitious, so anxious to get ahead . . . asking me to come and be a burden, a regular old millstone. You don't want me, really, Larry, you don't love me, dear—"

"But . . ." began Larry, helplessly.

"No, you don't! Not . . . not the marrying way. And I don't love you—that way. Every other way, yes. But not . . . not that. Larry, you know I won't marry you—but—I do thank you for asking me," said Mary Lou with a quaint sort of ceremony.

A Way Out.

He took her cold little hands in his own and leaned close to the fragrant, rounded cheek, the crop of curling red-gold hair.

"I want to take care of you!" he said stubbornly.

Chivalry isn't dead, after all.

Mary Lou shook her head.

"I'll have to take care of myself!" she cried out, "and it's high time I learned how. Get me a job, Larry, any kind of a job, and I'll be so grateful to you. And now, for mercy's sake, go home."

She turned a little and brushed a very small kiss across his lean, freckled cheek, and got to her feet.

The following day being Sunday, Mary Lou, Billy and the Sandersons journeyed out to Oakdale, Long Island, to see Grandmother Jennings and talk over their plans.

On the train, as Howard endeavored to restrain his small son from hanging out of the window while demanding to ride with the engineer—"Why can't I ride with the engineer, daddy?"—Clara and Mary Lou sat together and soberly discussed the details of closing up the little rented house, details which would fall to Mary Lou's lot to attend to, as Clara would have to keep on with her position and break in her successor until practically the last minute.

For it had finally been decided that the Sandersons would accept the offer, that Billy would go to his grandmother's and that Mary Lou would go with him, remaining until such time as she could make other arrangements.

Mary Lou, looking with blind blue eyes at the Autumnal landscape, was trying hard to be extremely practical and matter-of-fact. Now and then, in a small red notebook, with a pencil stub, she managed to make shaky, scrawly notes while she questioned Clara severely as to what would be stored, what must be sold and what would be packed.

The Sandersons' boat would sail the first week in November and there was a great deal to do.

"You must," said Mary Lou, wisely, "buy thin clothes. You can't trot off east of Suez with a fur coat and sports tweeds!"

Strong Ties.

"It's going to be pretty bad," she said, "leaving Billy. I—I sometimes wonder how I can do it. I get—panicky. But you? If only I knew you were to be with him permanently, settled — or with someone I knew and trusted. I feel dreadfully about it, Mary Lou, as if . . . as if I were failing you so."

Her clever, brown eyes were bright with unusual tears. Mary Lou and Larry Mitchell had seemed to her in less overwrought times, and still seemed, deep in her heart, she could not help wondering for one wild moment if, after all, such a solution wouldn't be the best and safest thing for Mary Lou under the present topsy-turvy circumstances. She opened her firm, red mouth to say something and shut it again, irresolute. But Mary Lou, with the almost psychic sense she had at times, and a very disconcerting sense she often found it, forestalled her by reading her thoughts neatly and accurately.

"And I'm awfully fond of him," she told Clara quickly, "but, oh, I know what you're thinking. It—wouldn't work. Larry doesn't love me, Clara, and I don't love him. Not in the way we should—to get married, I mean," she went on, flushing, confused, adorable in her confusion.

"I know," said Clara and sighed a little.

"But he'll look after me," Mary Lou assured her. "He's going to help me get a job."

Arriving at Oakdale they engaged the lone and rickety taxi and drove to Grandma Jennings on, actually, Applelane Street, the car sobbing and snorting convulsively, much to Billy's amusement.

"You marry me, Mary Lou, and I'll take care of you," said Larry.

Billy's New Home.

ASKOV FIRM TO BUILD SCHOOL

General Contract for Junior High is Awarded; Board Defers Action on Other Contracts

BID IS $157,889

To Start Possibly Next Week; Bids on Mechanical Contracts to be Let Tonight

The Brainerd Board of Education, after lengthy deliberation, last night awarded the contract for the general construction of the new junior high school to the Askov Construction Co. of Askov, Minn.

The board did not award any other contracts last night, preferring further consideration of the bids received before making decisions.

Several hundred builders, supply men, surety bond salesmen and others interested were present for the meeting.

The successful bid was $157,889. Nineteen different bids were received, the highest being $214,000. The Askov's basic bid was $159,944. From this were deductions totalling $4,585 in three alternates and the addition of $2,530 on three other alternates.

These alternates call for terraza floors, metal covered entrance doors, rail steel in construction, granite steps, Sunflex paint on plaster work.

The successful contractors indicated to the Board of Education that they were prepared to start construction as soon as the contract papers and bonds are approved by the board. The board is expected to complete these legal transactions by the close of the week. Thus it is assumed that actual work on the construction of the new junior high school on Block 82 or the so-called "fill site" will begin next week.

The school board further came to an understanding with the contractors that the minimum wage scale for common labor would be 45 cents an hour.

The general contractors further agreed to employ as many Brainerd men as possible. Excavation work will be by teams and not steam shovels. By this means 25 to 30 teams will be employed.

The contractors expressed the desire to co-operate with the wishes of the board in every way and gave the mill work to Kampmann & Son, local sash and door factory concern.

The board will meet again tonight to let bids on heating, plumbing, ventilating, electrical and temperature control. Fifty-three bids are to be considered.

The contract for the building calls for completion by February 15, 1932, but it is unlikely that the school will be occupied before September, 1932, as the board will not desire to reorganize its school system in the middle of a semester.

The school will be constructed to accomodate 500 pupils. It will be two stories and a basement. Brick and precast stone will be used.

The main entrance wil be at the corner of 10th and Kingwood streets with one wing facing Kingwood street and the other facing North 10th street.

The auditorium, stage, and gymnasium arrangement will be similar to that at the Washington high school but of course the seating capacities in the auditorium and gymnasium will be less. The gymnasium floor will be the same size as that of the Washington.

The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 500 while the gymnasium will have a bleacher capacity of 300. A sliding wall can divide the gymnasium to serve boys and girls at one time.

The Askov Construction Co. is listed as highly responsible builders. School jobs include one at Alexandria and one at Park Rapids. The company is now engaged in a construction job at Ellsworth, Wis.

The barn in the rear of the residence lots of Sam H. Parker was destroyed by fire last night. There were about six thousand feet of lumber and two pairs of sleds, the property of Brockway and Parker in the barn, which was totally destroyed with its contents. The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss on the barn is probably $100 and on the contents at least $150 with no insurance. The fire occurred about 11:30 o'clock and there was some delay in getting to a phone to send in an alarm so that by the time the department arrived the fire was beyond control.

Andrew Paulson, the little son of Louis Paulson, living on the Mille Lacs road about six miles east of Brainerd was drowned in an unused well yesterday. The parents were at work in the field leaving the little boy and a young girl at the house. The girl was working about the house and missed the boy and her crying attracted the attention of the parents who joined in the search. There was an old well on the premises that was not used and had been curbed up about two feet and boarded over. The wet weather however, had caused the dirt to cave in around the edges and the hole was covered with grass so that it had not been discovered. The little one evidently attempted to climb up onto the curb and slipped into the home and was dead when found. The funeral and interment will take place at the church near the parents' home.

The funeral services of W. H. Brain, will be held at the Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon, leaving the house at 2:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. J. M. Quinn and daughter, Emily, leave tonight for Cheney, Wash., where they will visit Ralph Quinn, who is operator there for the Northern Pacific. They will also visit Portland, Ore., before their return.

Young Runaways Taken Near Staples as They Planned to go to Dakotas

The irresponsibility of youth was plainly in evidence in municipal court this morning as threads of a runaway courtship which did not end in matrimony were unfolded as the young man of 20 was arraigned on the charge of kidnaping a 15 year old girl, already a mother.

Orval M. Brady, who said he has not seen his parents for five years and does not know where they live, was accused by complaint sworn out by the girl's mother, Mrs. Estella Cochran, of enticing and detaining Mary Louise Cochran away from the care and custody of the parent.

The young man asked for a hearing. Judge J. H. Warner fixed the date for next Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Brady and the young girl were returned to Brainerd last evening from near Staples where they planned to spend the night with Brady's brother. They were reported en route to the Dakotas where Brady hoped to gain employment in the harvest fields.

The complaint also alleged that Herbert Lanphier and Mae Lanphier also had a part in the kidnaping. The two were reached at Motley and will return to answer the complaint, Sheriff Frank E. Little said.

The background to the complaint is laid in Irondale township where all parties live.

Residents said that the girl ran away with the young man to seek adventure. She carried in her arms a young child, born to her out of wedlock it is reported. The father of the child, it was reported, is now serving sentence for his folly in a Missouri prison.

MILL FIRM DOES FINE BUSINESS

H. S. Bliss Co. Operating Full Capacity at River Saw and Planing Mill Here

ENLARGING OPERATIONS

70 Local Men Employed; All Year Around Employment Assured; Cut 10,000 Feet Daily

The H. S. Bliss Co. takes its place today as one of the leading manufacturers in the city, paying $2,000 every two weeks to local labor.

The company is making successful progress in the operation of its saw mill and retail lumber yard at its location just east of the Mississippi river bridge on the Merrifield road.

Mr. Bliss, president and manager, has outlined an ambitious program for year around operation. If business continues to increase as it has been doing a night shift will be started, Mr. Bliss announced today.

At the present time the mill is cutting 10,000 feet of timber and boards daily. The planing mill is also kept at full capacity.

The plant at the present time represents a capital of $20,000. Additional expenditure is now being made in the construction of two storage sheds for lumber, 150 feet, and another storage shed for cement and plaster. The company's headquarters office has already been erected.

In addition Mr. Bliss plans portable mills in various parts of the district. One will be estabished at the lower end of Gull Lake August 10 where the company has a million feet of lumber to saw.

The Bliss Company purchased the mill on June 19 of this year from Meyers Brothers after the latter had been in operation for a month. Since that time over 200,000 feet of deadhead lumber has been sawed. The lumber from deadheads, preserved in the Mississippi river, rates highly. Rafts and a tug boat are used to recover the dead heads. In addition the company cuts green timber from property it owns in Crow Wing and Cass counties.

Included in orders recently filled were those for piling and lumber for the Montevideo and Cold Springs bridges.

Approximately 70 men are employed in the various divisions of work, 25 being engaged in the sawing operationsat the mill.

SOUTH LONG LAKE

There will be Sunday school next Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. You are cordially invited to attend. The title of the lesson is Philip's Missionary Labors. The 8th Chapter of Acts 5 to 40 verses. Philip sent to help the man of Ethiopia. We must suppose that Philip was still in Samaria when the message came to him, Arise and go South. The direction of and place to which he was to go were given plainly enough but the object of the journey does not appear to have been stated. He was to go to the South until he came to the road running from Jerusalem to Gaza. This was on the great route from Palestine to Egypt.

Miss Mary Lamont motored to Brainerd Monday on a business trip.

CITATION FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION

No. 3558.

State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss., in Probate Court.

The State of Minnesota, to All Whom it May Concern:

WHEREAS, Lillian M. Brown has filed in this Court her petition stating, among other things, that she is the surviving spouse of the above named decedent; that said decedent died intestate, a resident of the County of Crow Wing, State of Minnesota, left property in the County of Crow Wing, State of Minnesota, and was a citizen of the United States; and praying that administration of his estate be granted to said Lillian M. Brown;

THEREFORE, You are hereby cited to be and appear before said Court on the 24th day of August, 1931, at ten o'clock A. M., in the Court House, in the City of Brainerd, in said County and State, and show cause, if any you have, why said petition should not be granted.

Nearsighted?

NEARSIGHTED people usually know there is some defect in their sight. FARSIGHTED ones, on the contrary, when the error is slight, do not realize that this slight strain is often harder on the nerves than a greater degree in myopia (nearsightedness).

Better have your eyes examined and be sure.

Farsighted?

Should the Children Eat It?

PARENTS, particularly mothers, are paying a lot of attention to children's diet these days. For it is far more economical and pleasant to keep a child well by feeding him correctly than by nursing and doctoring him back to health.

Of course the doctor should be consulted regarding what a child should eat and what he should not eat. But do you realize that the leading manufacturers of food now seek the advice and approval of the leading nutritional authorities in the country, relative to the claims they make for their products in their advertising?

In other words, food advertisements are reliable sources of information regarding diet. They are based upon the results of the latest approved scientific discoveries about vitamins, minerals and roughage, in relation to vigorous bodies, clear complexions, sound teeth and properly regulated systems.

So read these advertisements carefully. Consult your doctor about them. Very often the advertiser invites you to do this because he has asked authorities, whom your doctor respects, about those advertisements first.

MILL FIRM DOES FINE BUSINESS

H. S. Bliss Co. Operating Full Capacity at River Saw and Planing Mill Here

ENLARGING OPERATIONS

70 Local Men Employed; All Year Around Employment Assured; Cut 10,000 Feet Daily

The H. S. Bliss Co. takes its place today as one of the leading manufacturers in the city, paying $2,000 every two weeks to local labor.

The company is making successful progress in the operation of its saw mill and retail lumber yard at its location just east of the Mississippi river bridge on the Merrifield road.

Mr. Bliss, president and manager, has outlined an ambitious program for year around operation. If business continues to increase as it has been doing a night shift will be started, Mr. Bliss announced today.

At the present time the mill is cutting 10,000 feet of timber and boards daily. The planing mill is also kept at full capacity.

The plant at the present time represents a capital of $20,000. Additional expenditure is now being made in the construction of two storage sheds for lumber, 150 feet, and another storage shed for cement and plaster. The company's headquarters office has already been erected.

In addition Mr. Bliss plans portable mills in various parts of the district. One will be estabished at the lower end of Gull Lake August 10 where the company has a million feet of lumber to saw.

The Bliss Company purchased the mill on June 19 of this year from Meyers Brothers after the latter had been in operation for a month. Since that time over 200,000 feet of deadhead lumber has been sawed. The lumber from deadheads, preserved in the Mississippi river, rates highly. Rafts and a tug boat are used to recover the dead heads. In addition the company cuts green timber from property it owns in Crow Wing and Cass counties.

Included in orders recently filled were those for piling and lumber for the Montevideo and Cold Springs bridges.

Approximately 70 men are employed in the various divisions of work, 25 being engaged in the sawing operationsat the mill.

Mr. Bliss came to Brainerd from Excelsior, Minn., where he was engaged in general contracting.

The Pine Tree Stickers 4-H Club decided to have a Club Camp and Tour July 30 and 31, near Peterson's lake. At their last club meeting four committees were chosen, as follows: Margaret Peterson and Erna Rizor on the transportation committee; Vera Rizor and Violet Simonson on the food committee; Mrs. S. Splettstoezer and Dorothy Elmer on the dishes, and Mildred Carlson and Eunice Simonson on the bed clothes; Oscar Carlson and Clifford Simonson for the tents, wood, etc. After the business session was over, a program was given:

Recitation—Erna Rizor.

"Watermelon"—Clifford Simonson.

Recitation—Dorothy Elmer.

A Joke—Mildred Carlson.

A song "The More We Get Together"—Eunice Simonson and Vera Rizor.

A song "Our Club Will Shine"—Erna Rizor and Margaret Peterson.

A song "It Isn't Any Trouble Just to S-M-I-L-E"—by Clifford Simonson and Oscar Carlson.

Violet Simonson also gave a talk on when she was at the Junior Short Course. Five visitors were present at the meeting, and after lunch was served, games were played and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

CITATION FOR HEARING ON PETITION FOR ADMINISTRATION

No. 3558.

State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss., in Probate Court.

The State of Minnesota, to All Whom It May Concern:

WHEREAS, Lillian M. Brown has filed in this Court her petition stating, among other things, that she is the surviving spouse of the above named decedent; that said decedent died intestate, a resident of the County of Crow Wing, State of Minnesota, left property in the County of Crow Wing, State of Minnesota, and was a citizen of the United States; and praying that administration of his estate be granted to said Lillian M. Brown;

THEREFORE, You are hereby cited to be and appear before said Court on the 24th day of August, 1931, at ten o'clock A. M., in the Court House, in the City of Brainerd, in said County and State, and show cause, if any you have, why said petition should not be granted.

Dated July 28th, 1931.

(Probate Court Seal) L. B. KINDER, Probate Judge.

D. H. FULLERTON,
Attorney for Petitioner. 48t3W

A Fitting Reward

First of the championship girl swimmers to return home to Los Angeles after their triumphs in the national aquatic meet staged in the East, pretty Jennie Cramer of the Los Angeles Athletic Club accepted the beautiful team trophy on behalf of herself and her teammates as this picture was snapped. The L. A. A. C. girls won the trophy for the second time in two years.

NEARSIGHTED people usually know there is some defect in their sight. FARSIGHTED ones, on the contrary, when the error is slight, do not realize that this slight strain is often harder on the nerves than a greater degree in myopia (nearsightedness).

Better have your eyes examined and be sure.

Should the Children Eat It?

PARENTS, particularly mothers, are paying a lot of attention to children's diet these days. For it is far more economical and pleasant to keep a child well by feeding him correctly than by nursing and doctoring him back to health.

Of course the doctor should be consulted regarding what a child should eat and what he should not eat. But do you realize that the leading manufacturers of food now seek the advice and approval of the leading nutritional authorities in the country, relative to the claims they make for their products in their advertising?

In other words, food advertisements are reliable sources of information regarding diet. They are based upon the results of the latest approved scientific discoveries about vitamins, minerals and roughage, in relation to vigorous bodies, clear complexions, sound teeth and properly regulated systems.

So read these advertisements carefully. Consult your doctor about them. Very often the advertiser invites you to do this because he has asked authorities, whom your doctor respects, about those advertisements first.

CHARLIE RETZLAFF SHOWS HIS DEADLY PUNCH AGAINST OSA

DULUTHIAN SHOWS ABILITY TO TAKE PUNISHMENT, AND EXHIBITS "KILLER" INSTINCT

New York, July 29.—(U.P.)—Charlie Retzlaff, Duluth, Minn., knockout artist, today was ranked well ahead of Steve Hamas, Passaic, N. J., collegian, for recognition as America's outstanding young heavyweight prospect.

Retzlaff, recognized by Max Schmeling as the most likely successor to the world's championship, last night knocked out Matea Osa of Spain in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Queensboro stadium, while Hamas scored an unimpressie seven round technical knockout over Frank Morris of New York, national guard heavyweight champion.

In defeating Osa, Retzlaff not only showed the deadly punch which has enabled him to score 30 knockouts in 34 professional engagements, but he also displayed the ability to take punishment and the "killer" instinct which marks a true champion.

Osa, undefeated in 20 bouts and rated as a terrific puncher, was outclassed.

Osa went to the floor under a terrific right and still was flat on his face when the count was completed.

Osa hit Retzlaff after the bell in the first and the westerner retalitated with a flurry of blows, chasing the Spaniard into a corner where it took the combined efforts of Referee Danny Ridge, Retzlaff's manager, Jack Hurley, and several seconds to halt the fighting. Retzlaff's temper flared again in the second when he was hit low for the third time, and he drove a deliberate low punch to Osa's body. Retzlaff outweighed Osa, 194½ to 185.

Hamas' showing against Morris was disappointing to boxing followers who had hailed the former Penn State football star as a "second Dempsey." Hamas floored Morris five times and finally won on a technical knockout but his punches lacked their usual sting.

NORTHEAST PILES UP 16 TO 1 WIN

Members of the South Side baseball club, champions of the first half of the city league, had a lot of explaining to do today about a certain game played last night at which Northeast administered them a 16 to 1 whipping.

It is true that only seven players of the South Side turned out and that the additional men had to be recruited from the side lines and it is also true that Northeast packed an array of 17 baseball players and took advantage of the situation with determination.

Northeast slugged out 16 hits and made them all count. Jarbo, N. E. moundster, bore down throughout the entire route and tried for a shutout but S. S. scored their lone tally in the last inning on a balk, a hit and a hit and run play. Franks lead the South Side with a single and a double while Elling lead the Northeast rampage with four singles. Thompson started on the mound for South Side but was hit hard and a number of bad fielding errors and wild throws caused him to retire in the third inning. Hanson followed him to retire the side in the third with no runs, but bad errors and fielding again lead to his downfall.

There is no game scheduled tonight but tomorrow night Southeast and South Side will tangle. Friday night South Side and Y. M. C. A. will meet

KEARNS SPEAKS OF DEMPSEY'S LIKES, DISLIKES

FORMER MANAGER DECLARES DEMPSEY WOULD NOT FIGHT WALKER

ALSO WOULD NOT TAKE ON HARRY WILLS OR HARRY GREB

Chicago, July 29—(U.P.)—Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey and now pilot of Mickey Walker, said today that the former heavyweight champion once told him he would never fight Walker, Harry Wills or Harry Greb.

"After Walker, who was then a welterweight, knocked out three heavyweights in succession in a Los Angeles gym one day Jack said to me 'Doc, Walker is one guy I never want to fight,'" Kearns said. "Dempsey was afraid to fight Harry Wills when he could have whipped the negro and you could not drag him into a ring with Harry Greb, who whipped him every time they boxed in a training camp."

Kearns called Dempsey "a complete flop as a promoter" and reiterated that a group of Chicago business men stood ready to guarantee him $250,000 to meet Walker here in September.

"Here is a chance for Dempsey to quit bullying the public about a comeback," said Kearns. "The conditions of the match would be even, Dempsey is about 6 years older but he would outweigh Walker about 40 pounds."

ACCUSED OF SLAYING HIS BEST FRIEND

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 29.—(U.P.)—Manslaughter charges were ordered filed today against Arlington Watson, accused of slaying Michael McKerning, his best friend, when the latter attempted to prevent him from committing suicide after a domestic quarrel.

In November, 1929, Mr. Hoover brought together a group of the nation's biggest industrialists who said they would do everything they could to maintain wages. Labor on its side promised to avoid strikes. That had been regarded as a pledge.

Now Secretary of Commerce Lamont has just said that this was not exactly a pledge, as the executives were without authority to bind their companies. But few question that Mr. Hoover's efforts maintained a strong public psychology in favor of preserving buying power and stiffened the backbone of industrial executives who otherwise might have yielded before this to stockholders who were worrying over shrinking dividends. In this depression there has been a tendency to shove wages in ahead of dividends and give them greater sanctity than ever before in the opinion of many economists.

Now it is a question of how long the depression will last. No official here thought, in November 1929, that it would continue as long as this.

NO WAGE SLASHING CAMPAIGN IN U. S.

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

Washington, July 29.—Official Washington was convinced today, upon reflection, that there will be no wage slashing "stampede" in the United States.

Study of the U. S. Steel directors' recommendation for "adjustments" in the salaries of officials and other salaried employes led to the view that this action had been given perhaps a too pessimistic interpretation in many quarters.

Government sources realized that there is considerable pressure for "adjustments" in some lines, but it was emphasized anew that President Hoover still stands firmly opposed to wage cuts.

The administration believes it would be ill advised to have wage slashes, and it will continue its fight against wage cutters.

Big business in the United States, it was declared, is looking towards the White House today, with greater earnestness than at any time since October, 1929, for guidance and help in the matter of preserving the Hoover wage principle.

The great employers of the country, including the railroads, packers, automobile industry, electrical industry, etc., are thoroughly in accord with the president's desire to protect the existing wage scale, it is said.

The leaders of all these industries are reported to feel that if a break in the line occurred, concerns not as financially strong as the great fundamental industries in the country, would leap at the opportunity to make sweeping and largely unconsidered reductions and that serious economic results would follow.

Wins for France

It was another case of too much Cochet when France won the famous Davis Cup, emblematic of international tennis supremacy, for the fifth consecutive year. The final matches were played between France and England. Cochet (above), known as Henri to his pals, took the fifth and deciding match when he defeated Fred J. Perry. Although ill, Cochet put up a victorious battle.

Inspired by Billy Petrolle?

By HARDIN BURNLEY

MOVED, in part by the success of Billy Petrolle in punching his way back to national headlines, the doughty Ace Hudkins—a walloping wild cat, if ever there was such—Kid Chocolate, the smacking smoke from Havana, and Al Singer, popular New York lightweight, are trying to retrieve former laurels.

Recently Hudkins was the hellcat of old, clawing and battering his way to a 10-round decision over King Levinsky, a good Chicago light heavyweight. The Ace is now a big boy himself. He appeared to have all his old speed for eight rounds against the rugged Levinsky but tired obviously near the finish. Of course, many months of inactivity may account for his tiring. A few more bouts and he may be as sturdy as of old.

Hudkins is one of those chaps who take plenty. He insists, however, that punishment has not even threatened to send him into the punching bag or paper doll cutting class. The Ace always had that thing called "color." His return should increase interest among fans wherever they unleash the erstwhile Nebraskan wildcat which now a fistic lion or tiger would be!

Singer outpointed Lew Massey a few weeks ago. Al also seemed to tire in the ninth and final tenth rounds. Hailed as "the real successor to Benny Leonard" when he won the lightweight crown with a one-round K. O. of Sammy Mandell about a year ago, Singer himself was socked out since by both Jimmy McLarnin and Tony Canzoneri. He's facing a more dubious comeback trail than is Hudkins.

As to Chocolate, he recently won the world's junior lightweight title by kayoing Benny Bass in the seventh round, and hopes to get another chance at Champion Battalino's feather crown. "Bat" beat the Cuban in one of last Fall's big upsets. Jackie "Kid" Berg also outpointed him. But the "Keed" was never near the knockout state and he stands a good chance of reversing things should Battalino be inveigled into giving Chocolate a return bout. The little darky hasn't far to come back, all in all; but Singer and Hudkins—especially Al—have a thorny uphill climb before they can be rated as "Billy Petrolles."

New York, July 29.—(U.P.)—Charlie Retzlaff, Duluth, Minn., knockout artist, today was ranked well ahead of Steve Hamas, Passaic, N. J., collegian, for recognition as America's outstanding young heavyweight prospect.

Retzlaff, recognized by Max Schmeling as the most likely successor to the world's championship, last night knocked out Matea Osa of Spain in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Queensboro stadium, while Hamas scored an unimpressie seven round technical knockout over Frank Morris of New York, national guard heavyweight champion.

In defeating Osa, Retzlaff not only showed the deadly punch which has enabled him to score 30 knockouts in 34 professional engagements, but he also displayed the ability to take punishment and the "killer" instinct which marks a true champion.

Osa, undefeated in 20 bouts and rated as a terrific puncher, was outclassed.

Osa went to the floor under a terrific right and still was flat on his face when the count was completed.

Osa hit Retzlaff after the bell in the first and the westerner retalitated with a flurry of blows, chasing the Spaniard into a corner where it took the combined efforts of Referee Danny Ridge, Retzlaff's manager, Jack Hurley, and several seconds to halt the fighting. Retzlaff's temper flared again in the second when he was hit low for the third time, and he drove a deliberate low punch to Osa's body. Retzlaff outweighed Osa, 194½ to 185.

Hamas' showing against Morris was disappointing to boxing followers who had hailed the former Penn State football star as a "second Dempsey." Hamas floored Morris five times and finally won on a technical knockout but his punches lacked their usual sting.

NORTHEAST PILES UP 16 TO 1 WIN

Members of the South Side baseball club, champions of the first half of the city league, had a lot of explaining to do today about a certain game played last night at which Northeast administered them a 16 to 1 whipping.

It is true that only seven players of the South Side turned out and that the additional men had to be recruited from the side lines and it is also true that Northeast packed an array of 17 baseball players and took advantage of the situation with determination.

Northeast slugged out 16 hits and made them all count. Jarbo, N. E. moundster, bore down throughout the entire route and tried for a shutout but S. S. scored their lone tally in the last inning on a balk, a hit and a hit and run play. Franks lead the South Side with a single and a double while Elling lead the Northeast rampage with four singles. Thompson started on the mound for South Side but was hit hard and a number of bad fielding errors and wild throws caused him to retire in the third inning. Hanson followed him to retire the side in the third with no runs, but bad errors and fielding again lead to his downfall.

There is no game scheduled tonight but tomorrow night Southeast and South Side will tangle. Friday night South Side and Y. M. C. A. will meet

KEARNS SPEAKS OF DEMPSEY'S LIKES, DISLIKES

ALSO WOULD NOT TAKE ON HARRY WILLS OR HARRY GREB

Chicago, July 29—(U.P.)—Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey and now pilot of Mickey Walker, said today that the former heavyweight champion once told him he would never fight Walker, Harry Wills or Harry Greb.

"After Walker, who was then a welterweight, knocked out three heavyweights in succession in a Los Angeles gym one day Jack said to me 'Doc, Walker is one guy I never want to fight,'" Kearns said. "Dempsey was afraid to fight Harry Wills when he could have whipped the negro and you could not drag him into a ring with Harry Greb, who whipped him every time they boxed in a training camp."

Kearns called Dempsey "a complete flop as a promoter" and reiterated that a group of Chicago business men stood ready to guarantee him $250,000 to meet Walker here in September.

"Here is a chance for Dempsey to quit bullying the public about a comeback," said Kearns. "The conditions of the match would be even, Dempsey is about 6 years older but he would outweigh Walker about 40 pounds."

ACCUSED OF SLAYING HIS BEST FRIEND

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 29.—(U.P.)—Manslaughter charges were ordered filed today against Arlington Watson, accused of slaying Michael McKerning, his best friend, when the latter attempted to prevent him from committing suicide after a domestic quarrel.

down the fight he made to hold up wages.

In November, 1929, Mr. Hoover brought together a group of the nation's biggest industrialists who said they would do everything they could to maintain wages. Labor on its side promised to avoid strikes. That had been regarded as a pledge.

Now Secretary of Commerce Lamont has just said that this was not exactly a pledge, as the executives were without authority to bind their companies. But few question that Mr. Hoover's efforts maintained a strong public psychology in favor of preserving buying power and stiffened the backbone of industrial executives who otherwise might have yielded before this to stockholders who were worrying over shrinking dividends. In this depression there has been a tendency to shove wages in ahead of dividends and give them greater sanctity than ever before in the opinion of many economists.

Now it is a question of how long the depression will last. No official here thought, in November 1929, that it would continue as long as this.

NO WAGE SLASHING CAMPAIGN IN U. S.

(Copyright, 1931, by United Press)

Washington, July 29.—Official Washington was convinced today, upon reflection, that there will be no wage slashing "stampede" in the United States.

Study of the U. S. Steel directors' recommendation for "adjustments" in the salaries of officials and other salaried employes led to the view that this action had been given perhaps a too pessimistic interpretation in many quarters.

Government sources realized that there is considerable pressure for "adjustments" in some lines, but it was emphasized anew that President Hoover still stands firmly opposed to wage cuts.

The administration believes it would be ill advised to have wage slashes, and it will continue its fight against wage cutters.

Big business in the United States, it was declared, is looking towards the White House today, with greater earnestness than at any time since October, 1929, for guidance and help in the matter of preserving the Hoover wage principle.

The great employers of the country, including the railroads, packers, automobile industry, electrical industry, etc., are thoroughly in accord with the president's desire to protect the existing wage scale, it is said.

The leaders of all these industries are reported to feel that if a break in the line occurred, concerns not as financially strong as the great fundamental industries in the country, would leap at the opportunity to make sweeping and largely unconsidered reductions and that serious economic results would follow.

Wins for France

It was another case of too much Cochet when France won the famous Davis Cup, emblematic of international tennis supremacy, for the fifth consecutive year. The final matches were played between France and England. Cochet (above), known as Henri to his pals, took the fifth and deciding match when he defeated Fred J. Perry. Although ill, Cochet put up a victorious battle.

Inspired by Billy Petrolle?

By HARDIN BURNLEY

MOVED, in part by the success of Billy Petrolle in punching his way back to national headlines, the doughty Ace Hudkins—a walloping wild cat, if ever there was such—Kid Chocolate, the smacking smoke from Havana, and Al Singer, popular New York lightweight, are trying to retrieve former laurels.

Recently Hudkins was the hellcat of old, clawing and battering his way to a 10-round decision over King Levinsky, a good Chicago light heavyweight. The Ace is now a big boy himself. He appeared to have all his old speed for eight rounds against the rugged Levinsky but tired obviously near the finish. Of course, many months of inactivity may account for his tiring. A few more bouts and he may be as sturdy as of old.

Hudkins is one of those chaps who take plenty. He insists, however, that punishment has not even threatened to send him into the punching bag or paper doll cutting class. The Ace always had that thing called "color." His return should increase interest among fans wherever they unleash the erstwhile Nebraskan wildcat which now a fistic lion or tiger would be!

Singer outpointed Lew Massey a few weeks ago. Al also seemed to tire in the ninth and final tenth rounds. Hailed as "the real successor to Benny Leonard" when he won the lightweight crown with a one-round K. O. of Sammy Mandell about a year ago, Singer himself was socked out since by both Jimmy McLarnin and Tony Canzoneri. He's facing a more dubious comeback trail than is Hudkins.

As to Chocolate, he recently won the world's junior lightweight title by kayoing Benny Bass in the seventh round, and hopes to get another chance at Champion Battalino's feather crown. "Bat" beat the Cuban in one of last Fall's big upsets. Jackie "Kid" Berg also outpointed him. But the "Keed" was never near the knockout state and he stands a good chance of reversing things should Battalino be inveigled into giving Chocolate a return bout. The little darky hasn't far to come back, all in all; but Singer and Hudkins—especially Al—have a thorny uphill climb before they can be rated as "Billy Petrolles."
